

Davenport Companies Works with MGM Resorts in Springfield

When MGM Resorts, a global leader in hospitality and entertainment, announced plans to bid for the right to build a casino complex in the historically rich City of Springfield, Massachusetts, they looked to Davenport Companies for its deep knowledge of the New England real estate market. Having acquired, developed and entitled over 15 million square feet of property the principals of Davenport have earned a reputation as the Northeast Region's premiere development advisors and asset managers.

Plans for the proposed casino project were unveiled to the community which included an eclectic mix of dining, retail and entertainment options along with state of the art commercial and residential properties.
